

INSIDER THREAT: THE ENEMY WITHIN... YOU'D BE BETTER OFF WITHOUT

ASIS Puget Sound Chapter and Center for Threat Intelligence invites you to listen to a one-hour presentation.

Presented by Janet Lawless, CEO and Founder of Center for Threat Intelligence.

Center for Threat Intelligence is an approved provider for Department of Homeland Security's National Initiative for Cybersecurity Careers and Studies (NICCS).

Insider threats can devastate an organization. Insiders may be current or former employees, contractors, vendors, or trusted third parties. Insider attack strategies including cyber, physical, human and technology, often using a combination of these tactics. Motivations may be financial gain, disruption due to bad review or missed promotion. Using threat intelligence skills and techniques become more aware of insider threats allows you to proactively defend your environment.

This presentation will provide you with key information and awareness about insider threats and review:

- Definition of an insider threat including malicious and the accidental insider
- Motivation
- Tradecraft and techniques
- Share techniques on detecting insider threats

Who should watch this presentation?

EVERYONE!

Security and Threat Intelligence Professionals: Enhance your career and skills and learn to proactively identify insider threat activities.

Attorneys: Enhance legal activities, investigations and interviewing skills by creating an awareness of insider motivation and techniques.

Managers and Executives: Understand insider threat indicators, motivation and tradecraft to prioritize and address risk.

Risk, Compliance and Human Resource Professionals: Understand insider threats and enhance knowledge of potential risks before they happen.

Federal Agents and Law Enforcement: Master techniques to identify insider threats for advanced investigations and to improve job skills.

Speaker Biography

Janet Lawless CTIS

CEO and Founder Center for Threat Intelligence

2022 Chair for ASIS International Puget Sound Chapter

Janet is CEO and Founder of Center for Threat Intelligence. Janet established a team of intelligence experts to build a cutting-edge threat intelligence consulting, assessments, training and a certification program for Certified Threat Intelligence Specialist Certification (CTIS).

In former leadership roles at Microsoft and Cisco, she created and managed global programs focused on compliance and security. In addition, she was the VP of Sales at a cybersecurity start-up and with this experience brings a wealth of knowledge in cybersecurity services.

She is a member of InfraGard (a partnership between the FBI and members of the private sector), the United States Secret Service Cyber Fraud Task Force and the Washington State Fusion Center. She is a keynote speaker and speaks at many conferences and customer events. Janet was formerly Committee Chair for Women in Security ASIS Puget Sound, the Chair Emeritus for the Pacific Coast Analyst Roundtable and a former Board Member for the American Red Cross and Big Brother/Big Sister organizations.

She volunteers for the American Red Cross and Community Emergency Response Team (CERT). Janet also founded "PCs 2 Vets" and has provided over 1,000 laptops to veterans.